Good night

By Ausef Farooqui

When I was eight years old, I was watching cartoons on sunny afternoons, sitting cross legged in my living room years removed from impending doom, playing kick ball and 4 square in the playground, not a single fear or a damn care ever stayed around, days of peace and happiness lost in blissful bashfulness, I shed a tear now as I remember this, thirteen years later each sight a twisted labor gazing at the newspaper, young souls with years to savor wiped away by a bloody eraser, lives lost in danger, the greed and ambition of too many fiends who seed this division only seem to speed their missions, ethnic genocides and vicious decisions only breed more victims, Bosnia, Chechnya, Kashmir, young innocence living in fear, their lives the destruction did not spare, speed to heaven among the angels who care, Inshallah I'll pray for you, I swear.

A nine year old girl clutching a straw doll as the soldiers saw this baby pearl just like they saw all, three shots later, her blood stained the four walls, her tears screaming a silent call, her face in my dreams gnawing into my soul like a raw awl, her body covered with small shawl, please young soul stand tall and God bless you on your journey to jannah, Inshallah, live in peace where you are more than a number, a statistic on a politician's agenda, Inshallah, smile again and be free, peace and blessings upon thee, the tear I shed as you whisk away to paradise, young sista you payed the price for our bloody evils and vice, now rest.

Masajid Around the World

Al-Ibrahim Mosque of Caracas

The capital of Venezuela, Caracas, has a Muslim population of 15,000. The Mezquita Al-Ibrahim mosque in Caracas is the biggest in Latin America. Located in a rapidly changing area of the city, this historic mosque features the use of dome, minaret, and portal to signal its presence in the urban landscape, and devices such as the octagonal hall rising up from a platform to a circular dome to achieve the transition between the street and the interior of the prayer hall. It was constructed with funds from the Ibrahim bin Abdul Aziz Al-Ibrahim Foundation under the planning of architect Oscar Bacho.

In this capital, the mosque's dome dominates one of the city's most visible and most prestigious addresses. Situated at the head of a main artery, Avenida Libertador, the mosque counts among its neighbors the national theater, fine arts museum, telephone company and botanical gardens.

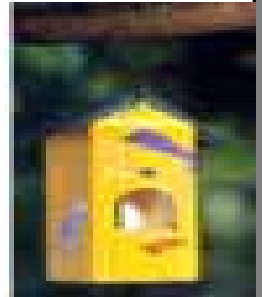

For the architects, the price of prestige has been the challenge of squeezing onto an irregularly shaped one-acre lot a mosque capable of holding 3,500 worshippers. Leased by the government, the lot is 40 feet above the tracks of the city's main subway line and cheek by jowl with an eight-lane freeway. To muffle noise and vibration from the subway, the ground floor of the mosque is devoted to a community room that is used for weddings, meetings, a library and a Qur'anic school. To muffle highway noise, the inner octagonal sanctuary is encased, first in concrete and then in white Cuban marble.

Affording a traditional play of light and shadows to the prayer hall, sunlight filters through double-pane windows, and artificial light emanates from a 56-foot hammered bronze lamp imported from Egypt.

Cool Craft

Make Your Own Bird Feeder

Backyard birds won't know the difference between a fancy, store-bought bird feeder and one that's homemade, so save your pennies and make one out of an empty milk carton. Cut openings on opposite sides of a clean carton and coat with nontoxic paint. Glue the popsicle stick shingles onto the roof. For a perch, poke holes below the openings and slip a dowel through the holes. Fill the bottom of the feeder with birdseed mix. (You can make your own mix by combining a variety of nuts and seeds, such as sunflower seeds, millet, thistle seeds and yellow corn.) Then hang the feeder with wire in a spot that's easy to view but far enough away from fences or posts to thwart predators.

Will You? By Hanan Abdine

Will you be my companion on the road to Allah?
 Will you be my support?
 Will you cover me with the taqwa coat?
 As I'm not living in Jannah
 And there are many battles to be fought.
 Will you save my stumbling feet?
 To protect me from the scary heat
 Will you move me with your inspiring words?
 Inspiring smiles
 Inspiring hands
 I see the light in your face
 And the faith on your heart
 With the light of Allah
 Will you help me illuminate my way?
 And with that strong beautiful faith
 Will you take my hand to the straight path?
 And with both of them together
 Will you pave my way?
 Will you wipe my tears
 And erase my fears?
 Will you put me in your heart?
 Will you lend me a hand
 To walk hand in hand
 On the road to Allah
 As our direction is Jannah
 And our goal is the pleasure of Allah
 Will you?
